

Subject: Just a Note

Hi Stephanie,

It's Dan, your guide from Friday's bioluminescence tour. I don't know if I'm still on your mind, but you're definitely still on mine. Meeting you was a pleasure, and I felt an instant attraction. You're one of the most striking, intelligent, and vibrant people I've ever met. I guess that's why I found myself a little tongue-tied that night.

Jacksonville's not that far from Titusville, and I'd really enjoy having coffee with you sometime. If the idea sounds even mildly appealing or if you just want to critique my kayaking lol, feel free to reach out. My contact information is below. No pressure.

Above all, I want to be respectful of your situation. I did notice you're married, and I wouldn't be reaching out if I hadn't sensed some kind of spark between us. But I also know how easy it is to misread signals. If I have, please take this email simply as a sincere compliment.

I hope you're enjoying Jacksonville and settling into a new and good life here. If you ever hear things that don't feel welcoming, don't let them get to you. This country was built by people who arrived with hope, heart, and the courage to carve out something new—not by those who never step beyond their comfort zones. If this is where you want to be, then this is where you belong.

Wishing you all the best,
Dan
